G7CR Technologies to hire 120 people

BENGALURU: Bengaluru-based consulting and corporate training firm G7CR Technologies is hiring 120 people this year taking its total headcount to over 800 people. The firm is expanding its footprint to newer metros including Mumbai and Delhi.

The firm has also launched what it calls Business Enablement & Automation Program (BEAP) for SMEs offering customized solutions to cater to their business needs. Leveraging Microsoft's Azure cloud platform, G7CR would provide SMEs with software development, migration, adaption, implementation and 24X7 support.

"Lack of financing coupled with fast paced digital disruption are proving to be major constraints for most SME's today as they try to scale up and become increasingly competent," said Christopher Richard, MD & chief software architect in G7CR Technologies. "There are 57 million SMEs in the country. The IT-as-a-Service offering for SMEs would help accelerate their growth while freeing up vital resources such as financing for core business functions," he added.
